The Masonic Villages is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Admissions to the Masonic Villages are approved or disapproved primarily on the basis of need.

Decisions concerning admission, the provision of services and referrals of residents are not based upon the applicant's race, color, religion, disability, ancestry, national origin, familial status, age, sex, limited English proficiency or any other protected status.

QAPI: Four Letters which Mean Quality, Commitment and Care

Delivering the highest quality of care to residents is a daily priority for staff at Masonic Villages, and their efforts are being noticed. The Masonic Village at Elizabethtown and Masonic Village at Sewickley recently earned Basic Quality Assurance and Performance Improvement (QAPI) Accreditation, which recognizes their dedication to continuous improvement. (Masonic Villages' other locations are ineligible for the accreditation due to their smaller resident population, but have also put in similar exceptional efforts and improvements.)

"We constantly strive to give our residents the quality of life and level of dignity they deserve," Beth Bossert, chief operating officer – health care services, said. "Staff have put a lot of time and energy into this effort, and we are extremely proud of this accomplishment."

The abaqis® Quality Management System is a web-based assessment and reporting tool, which Masonic Villages staff use to track data, produce reports and identify areas for improvement. The software is similar to the methodology the Department of Health uses during annual inspections of long-term care communities to ensure they meet federal regulations.

Staff from various departments repeat the assessment and reporting process several times a year. Data collection, which includes interviewing dozens of residents, family members and staff; observing residents; and reviewing census records and admission records, takes about one month. Staff devote two months to identifying and resolving any problems revealed in the resulting reports.

QAPI Accreditation recognizes that through the use of abaqis®, Masonic Villages' staff are continually assessing residents' quality of life: managing pain, maintaining dignity and respecting resident choice. They are also documenting quality of care issues, such as managing weight loss, infections and rehabilitation following injury or illness, and preventing hospital readmission.

"We appreciate the participation and feedback of residents, their families and staff," Rose Dunkle, organization, development and training instructor, said. "It all translates to better care."

ADMIT ONE

An Angel's Breath

Alexis Allen's mother, Lisa Peterson, devoted her career to caring for others as a hospital corpsman in the U.S. Navy, a home health and hospice aide and a certified nursing assistant (CNA). Alexis often went to work with her, and in between playing her New Kids on the Block cassette tapes, grew close with her mother's patients and clients. A seed was planted in Alexis that would grow into her own nursing career.

Alexis worked in personal care for nine years when her mother encouraged her to become a CNA. After earning her CNA certification, Alexis joined Masonic Village at Elizabethtown in March 2016. She works on the Garden Path neighborhood, home to residents with end-stage dementia.

"I love my residents," she said. "I get to know them on a personal level. Every day is different, and every moment is different. It's challenging, but that's why I like it."

Bonded by their compassion for others, Alexis and Lisa talked about becoming registered nurses together, but life had other plans. On March 19, 2017, Lisa suddenly passed away at the age of 50. There were no warning signs. No goodbyes.

Lisa would leave one last impression on her daughter in the form of a breath. A breath which would save the life of a one-year-old boy.

On the afternoon of March 28, when Alexis would typically be headed to work, she was off, having just attended her mother's funeral the day prior. She was out for a drive on a country road with her youngest child and a good friend, escaping reality for a moment, when on the side of the road she saw a woman frantically talking on her cell phone. A young boy laying on the ground. He was blue.

"I saw him and just knew what to do," Alexis said as she stopped her car, jumped out and began administering CPR. "I just kept saying 'cry for me, cry for me.' All of a sudden, he gasped and started breathing."

Once the boy was breathing normally and an ambulance arrived, Alexis left the scene.

"I just thought, 'he's okay, I'm going to leave,'" she said. "I got in my car and was like 'what just happened?' It didn't hit me. It was just so weird because I would've been working that day if not for my mother's service.

"I feel like she was there. Like I was breathing her last breath. She was with me, telling me to do everything I could for that little boy."

Later, when they were still driving, Alexis' friend checked Facebook to see if anyone had posted anything about the incident. They found a post from the boy's mother, which was quickly gaining a lot of reaction from people. A local TV news station, WGAL 8, heard about the story and interviewed Alexis and the boy's mother.

Alexis learned that the boy had a fever seizure caused by a sudden spike in temperature, but would be fine. His mother, also a nurse, was too panicked at the time to administer CPR herself. The two women have not yet met in person, although they've messaged on Facebook.

The two events have changed Alexis' life. She is still motivated to become an RN and finish what her mother started, but she also seeks more simplicity in her life and time with her dad and three kids. Her family loves the outdoors: kayaking, hiking, walking trails and fishing. Their household is void of cable and tablets.

"I'm still dealing with the loss of my mom, and now I have this whole other thing to process. And everything else in my life is still going on," she said. "I need to rethink my situation and what's really important. It's family. My mom passed away at a young age with no symptoms. Life is precious."

Here to Help

After a whirlwind week of working with the Admissions Department to finalize the details needed to move his mother-in-law into the Masonic Village at Elizabethtown, David Rosensteel, found himself at a loss for words. As David would tell you, this doesn't happen often in his life.

"I can only say that Mary is now in the best facility on the planet," David said. "I've always known this about Masonic Village, but now I know even more. The staff couldn't have been more welcoming and comforting to Mary and her daughters."

David has seen Masonic Village through the eyes of youth in the Masonic Children's Home for 31 years. He currently works third shift as a child care worker in the Weller Cottage for older boys. His job entails ensuring everyone is safely in bed and taking care of housekeeping and meal prep that can be difficult when eight 10th to 12th graders are awake and active. There is also the occasional late night talk with a sleepless teenager. He has trained staff and community members in CPR and worked as a lifeguard at Masonic Village's Patton Pool, as well.

David's mother-in-law, Mary Garrison, has been declining in health for several years. About two years ago, Mary moved in with her daughter, Brenda, and began attending Masonic Village's Adult Daily Living Center, where staff kept the family informed about her health and worked closely with medical staff anytime it changed.

In January, Mary faced a devastating setback. Once her stay at a rehabilitative center was coming to an end in March, her family knew her only option was long-term care. With limited financial resources, including restrictions due to her private insurance, Mary's situation was difficult, and her family began to feel desperate.

Upon contacting the Admissions Department at Masonic Village, Dave learned they had immediate availability for Mary. In order to move her in quickly, changes were needed to her personal insurance, which the insurance company would only accept on the first day of the month. David; his wife, Debra; Brenda; and Masonic Village staff worked tirelessly to reach Mary's bank to obtain financial statements and meet a March 1 deadline.

"With the sands in the hourglass almost run out, Jeanie [Hummer, admissions supervisor] quickly and expeditiously jumped through hoops to obtain everything necessary to facilitate Mary's acceptance – right under the wire on Feb. 28 at 9 p.m.,"

Dave said. "What really impressed me most was all the people who made this happen. They understood our situation and really saw the human side of it."

Mary moved into her suite in the Masonic Health Care Center on March 1. She is thriving, and along with her family, has peace of mind. For families facing a similar situation, David encourages them to talk to Masonic Village's Admissions and Outreach Department. They can share what options are available and best for your loved ones.

"Be prepared and think of what's to come in life," David said. "People are here to help. We are humbled and exceedingly blessed. Mary is engaged and getting the care she needs. It's all about her. Staff demonstrate the utmost ability to preserve residents' dignity. This has been an answer to prayer and everything we could have hoped for."

At the Masonic Village at Elizabethtown, many people think that because of long waiting lists, access to nursing care, personal care or short-term rehab services is limited. In reality, individuals can often be accommodated within a short time frame.

Find out how we can help you or a loved one by contacting Masonic Village at Elizabethtown today: 1-717-361-4552 or toll-free 1-800-422-1207 or email MVEadmissions@masonicvillages.org. We recommend submitting an application even if you don't have an immediate need. This will enable us to accommodate you quickly if services are urgently needed in the future.

Exciting Changes In the Works

GRAND CHANGES

Masonic Village at Elizabethtown

One of the oldest buildings at Masonic Village at Elizabethtown is undergoing renovations and updates, to offer new spots to gather and dine, while maintaining its historical charm.

The Grand Lodge Hall, built from 1911-1913, will once again become the hub of the Masonic Village at Elizabethtown's campus, providing residents the opportunity to eat, exercise, socialize, participate in events and activities and run errands all in one place. They will be able to enjoy a drink in the tavern, sit with friends and family by a fire pit on the terrace, take part in a creative arts class and much more.

Construction began in April 2017 with completion expected by April 2018.

New and Updated Dining Options

The Restaurant at Grand Lodge Hall will expand into two dining venues: a restaurant serving lunch and dinner seven days a week, and a casual café serving breakfast, lunch and dinner seven days a week. Residents can meet friends in the pre-dining area in front of the fireplace.

Customers/residents will choose which style of dining they prefer or request take out. The restaurant will have menu service, and the café will feature an action buffet with cook-to-order stations and à la carte menu. The décor will include deep green fabrics, upscale finishes and lighting to complement the wood accents on the ceilings and walls and the large stained glass window.

"The Restaurant at Grand Lodge Hall has always been a majestic location, and these renovations will enhance its historical features," Greg Thomas, director of food services, said. "Overall, the changes will enable residents to choose from a variety of dining atmospheres, each with a unique menu. Employees will also have quick, easy options."

A new tavern will seat 33, and an open air dining area, overlooking the picturesque Formal Gardens, will expand dining options during the spring, summer and fall. It will feature a fire pit and live music. The space will be ideal for other activities, such as yoga and meditation, during morning hours.

Main Street

Along the "Main Street" corridor, residents can gather in the lobby or brightly-lit solarium, easily pick up their mail, visit the Village Shoppe, browse the updated library or use the multimedia room for a lifelong learning event. The lower level will include two recreation studios, a ceramics/glass fusion studio and an expanded boutique area for shoppers looking for a bargain. The salon will offer enhanced services for men and women. Just as the first residents of Masonic Village gathered in the Grand Lodge Hall in 1913 for entertainment and dining, residents will soon enjoy each other's company, savor a delicious meal and connect through events and programs amidst the backdrop of charming century-old architecture in this rejuvenated hub.

Cheers at Masonic Village at Sewickley

Slated for completion by the summer, a new exhibition kitchen in the restaurant at the Masonic Village at Sewickley will feature a buffet line and a stone hearth oven, ideal for baking breads, roasts, pizza and even desserts. The Grill Room will be expanded with an additional 22 seats indoors and an outside seating area, overlooking the woods, with five tables. The Retirement Living Residents Food Committee has been working together with the Food Services Department to come up with menu ideas.

Residents can also gather in a new pub in the Clubhouse, which will serve finger foods Monday through Saturday. The hours are not finalized yet, but will likely be Monday-Saturday, 3:30 to 7:30 p.m., and Sunday, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The Clubhouse will receive new carpet, paint/wall coverings and furniture, and the salon is being upgraded.

“With all the changes taking place on campus, everyone is very excited and curious,” Peter Countouris, director of food services, said. “New social spaces are always a plus, and we constantly look at ways to add variety to our dining options. The pub by far is the most anticipated change.”

Masonic Village at Warminster - Upgrades

Visitors will notice a fresh look when they step inside in the Masonic Village at Warminster, including new carpet and wall and window treatments. The nursing stations/care bases, East Hall Lounge and dining room underwent renovations, too.

“We’re happy that the dust has settled and residents have some upgraded spaces to attend programs, socialize and eat,” Kelly Weaver, executive director, said. “Our staff are enjoying their new work areas, too, which makes providing great care easier.”

VETERANS GARDEN

The Veterans Garden and Pond at the Masonic Village at Sewickley will recognize and honor veterans in a meaningful, lasting way. It will be a place for loved ones to pray for, celebrate and memorialize those who have, and those who continue, to serve our country.

A bronze statue of Brother and President George Washington will be prominent in the design. The statue, water fountain, pond and benches are available for individual recognition on a bronze or Corian tile.

Individuals and Lodges may purchase pavers to be inscribed with the name of donor(s), veteran(s) or loved one(s) serving in the armed forces. The sale of the pavers supports the construction and maintenance of this sacred area. Contact the Office of Gift Planning for more details at 1-800-599-6454 or visit MasonicCharitiesPa.org.

Proper Recognition - Help Wanted

In 1911, Civil War veteran Bro. Jackson McGlathery was the first guest to be interred in the Masonic Homes Cemetery in Elizabethtown. This was only one year after the flag ceremony on May 25, 1910, symbolizing the founding of the Masonic Homes. From then until 2013, approximately 1,800 individuals were buried in the cemetery, 48 percent of whom were Masons and 52 percent of whom were spouses or other family members. It was up to the family or descendants to recognize and identify veterans.

Resident Col. Lew Cressler (retired) remembers as a child going with his father to the hometown cemetery to honor veterans, which sparked his interest in history. As a member of the Masonic Village Veterans Committee, chaired by Brig. Gen. Tom Kuhn (retired), Lew put that interest to work by undertaking a 6-month research project to identify the veterans in the Masonic Village Cemetery in Elizabethtown.

Only 13 grave sites contained military standard holders with American flags. His research uncovered an additional 46 veterans who served in the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, World War I and World War II. Members of the committee honored their service by placing standards and flags on the graves of these veterans in April.

The project is a work in progress. The goal is to identify all the veterans, men and women, interred in the Masonic Village Cemetery. Anyone who has knowledge of a veteran buried in the cemetery is encouraged to contact the Masonic Village at Elizabethtown Executive Director's Office at 717-367-1121, ext. 33117.

A Basket of Fun

Filling it with their choice of goodies, residents in Lafayette Hill embraced some Easter fun!

The Heart of a Volunteer

Volunteers bring a special spirit to Masonic Villages and their local communities. They take on tasks big and small, selflessly giving of their time and energy.

It may be behind the scenes, or you might see them every day, smiling at an info desk, ready to welcome visitors. Behind the smile is always a kind heart, and in some cases, a healthier heart!

Volunteering can help reduce stress and keep you mentally stimulated and physically active. According to the National Institute on Aging, participating in meaningful, productive activities such as volunteering may lower the risk of health problems in seniors, including dementia, as well as improve longevity. It may also help prevent isolation and depression. The Corporation for National and Community Service has found that those who volunteer experience greater life satisfaction, a sense of purpose and accomplishment and more stress resilience.

“Our oldest volunteer turned 100 this year, and his level of activity and positive outlook is how he claims he got to that age,” Karen Hammond, recreation supervisor/concierge at Masonic Village at Sewickley, said.

More than 200 residents volunteered approximately 7,800 hours at the Masonic Village at Sewickley in 2016. This doesn't include the assistance provided by community volunteers who help in the gift shop, bring therapy dogs to visit residents in the Sturgeon Health Care Center and much more.

“Volunteers benefit residents and staff throughout the entire campus,” Ann Beck, recreation/volunteer director in Sewickley, said. “The time they spend with our residents helps keep boredom and loneliness at bay and fosters new and lasting friendships. Staff are grateful for the new ideas and perspectives volunteers always bring with them.”

“The Recreation Department would not be able to function and provide programs and events without the large pool of volunteers who lead and assist,” Karen said. “For that, we are very grateful!”

Last year in Elizabethtown, 682 volunteers, including residents, community members and teens logged more than 55,000 hours to benefit residents and staff.

“When we see the joy it brings to those who are helping others, it confirms all that we've learned about this symbiotic relationship between residents, volunteers and staff,” Kathi Nasatka, resident volunteer coordinator at Masonic Village at Elizabethtown, said.

In Lafayette Hill, 45 residents and 23 community members volunteer in various capacities, from running the gift shop and coordinating the annual bazaar, to visiting with residents and providing clerical assistance.

“Volunteers are our greatest asset!” Angela Hurst, director of recreation and activities in Lafayette Hill, said. “They exemplify Masonic Village's mission by simply caring for others. They give their time so generously, without expecting anything in return. That is a true volunteer.”

In Dallas, residents actively volunteer in the local community, including supporting the Trinity Presbyterian Church's Backpack Project to benefit the Child Development Center, helping with Meals on Wheels, delivering baked goods to a local soup kitchen and assisting at a local food pantry and halfway house.

The following Masonic Villages locations offer volunteer opportunities on campus. Individuals, school groups, college classes, service organizations and families are welcome.

The Power of ONE

Born in Philadelphia in 1944, it took Catherine Schneck's parents two years to determine she was legally blind. Regardless, they treated her just like her other siblings, often making allowances as they went along.

When Catherine was four or five, her doctor suggested she attend a school for visually impaired children, and during her nine years as a student, Catherine learned how to live in "the sighted world."

Growing up in her neighborhood, and later, in high school, she experienced difficulty due to bullying.

"I decided, you either become a recluse, or develop an 'I don't care' attitude, which I still maintain," she said.

Catherine worked after high school until she met her husband and became a Navy wife for 22 years. She became a mother of three, a Navy relief volunteer, Red Cross volunteer and spent time volunteering at her children's schools. When her husband retired from the Navy, their children were getting ready to begin high school. The two knew tuitions were going to be a big financial issue.

Catherine decided she needed to work, and the local agency for the visually impaired put her in touch with Overbrook School for the Blind, where she worked for 32 years.

"I always felt like I was giving back," she said.

Overbrook School for the Blind, one of the first of its kind, produced the first embossed book in America and the first magazine for the blind.

"You're visually impaired 24-hours-a-day, 7 days a week," she said. "That's why it's so important for these kids to learn how to live the best they can with their disabilities. I learned I could share so much experience with them."

After working at the school, she decided to continue her venture by volunteering. "After all those years of working, you're like 'what do I do now?,'" she said.

"I think no matter where you are in life, it's important to give back."

She takes the bus into Philadelphia weekly and offers help with mailings, fundraising events and receptions for students.

Today, the non-profit school provides quality programming and occupational therapies for children who are visually disabled or emotionally and learning disabled.

Back home at Masonic Village at Lafayette Hill, Catherine and her husband volunteer on campus and have built countless friendships. "People just adopted me as soon as I came here. I haven't let anything hold me back," she said.

Her fearless energy makes her more than a good friend, it makes her a good volunteer.

"I'm a walking mouth, I really am," she said. "I'll talk to anyone. I just like to remind people that happy things can happen in otherwise difficult situations."

Catherine may have trouble telling the pattern on your shirt or the color of your eyes, but don't let that fool you. She's quite resilient.

"We all adapt to what ails us," she says. "Sometimes it only takes one person to understand you."

A World Visionary

The activist and writer Martin Luther King Jr. said life's most urgent question is, "What are you doing for others?" Judi Hindes has been asking that of herself her entire life.

Entering Judi's apartment in Sewickley, you can see her passions proudly displayed across her walls. There are family photos, handmade treasures from her travels and various items monogrammed with a "J," many given by those whose lives she's touched.

In her office is a computer sitting in front of a brick accent wall that brings even more of her personality into the space, representing strength and uniqueness. This office is where she organizes her thoughts, keeps in contact with friends and family and coordinates her volunteer work.

Though she has volunteered with various organizations pre-retirement, her current place of choice is World Vision, a humanitarian organization dedicated to working with children, families and communities in need world-wide.

At World Vision's Pittsburgh Global Distribution Center, donated products, such as hygiene, medical, school and clothing, are sorted, processed and prepared for domestic and international distribution. Judi is one of the more than 7,500 volunteers working in the facility every year. Together, the volunteers, in combination with other World Vision centers, help distribute more than $3 billion in necessary survival items.

Since Judi doesn't do anything "willy-nilly," she has committed herself to volunteering monthly with World Vision for the last four years and has recruited other Masonic Village volunteers.

"Compassion for those in need is my greatest motivation," Judi said. "I am blessed to be in a situation where I, myself, don't need the help, so I feel strongly about helping others."

Through her service, her eyes were opened to the amount of childhood poverty in the nation and across the globe. According to World Vision, one out of five children in the

*“Compassion for those in need is my greatest

United States live in poverty. The statics across the globe are even worse, in fact, basically unmeasurable.

Judi truly believes in the importance of education and its power to help people rise from difficult situations. Although her background is in business management, Judi dedicated many pre-retirement years to teaching children sign language through Bible school and choirs, one of her many passions and talents.

“Kids have so many interests,” she said. “Encouraging those interests can change their lives. Some children are enthralled with learning sign language, which is wonderful because it could motivate them to build a career helping others.”

If Judi had to be selfish for one moment to explain what volunteering does for her, she’d give you a short phrase to remember: “Volunteering just leaves you feeling blessed.”

A Good MATCH

When Linda and Bob Schod moved to the Masonic Village at Elizabethtown more than nine years ago, they immediately took advantage of the entertainment, clubs and trips. They've enjoyed all the activities, and still do occasionally, but what has kept them most active is the opportunity to volunteer.

For Bob, volunteering has been a lifelong commitment. He has served as a volunteer firefighter, EMT, Civil Air Patrol Squadron Commander and in the Coast Guard, among other roles. Linda joined him during fundraisers at the fire hall, and both volunteered with Habitat for Humanity.

"That was life," Bob said. "I like to give back. No matter where you live or what you do, somebody needs a volunteer in some way, shape or form."

At Masonic Village, Linda and Bob both found a good fit for their skills and interests. At the Village Shoppe in Grand Lodge Hall, Linda runs the cash register, chooses which home and décor items to stock, displays the items and trains other volunteers. Bob helps order sundries for the Village Shoppe and Clubhouse Market, produces the monthly memorial list of residents who have passed away and helps to record volunteer hours across campus – for all 682 volunteers who contributed more than 55,000 hours in 2016. He and Linda alone contributed about 2,500 hours of their time.

"This information helps to quantify the success of our programs and provides a snapshot of service to further the Mission of Love to meet our goal of providing compassion and the highest quality care for each of our residents," Kathi Nasatka, resident volunteer coordinator, said.

Volunteer opportunities can be a good match for anyone, whether a person prefers to help behind the scenes or engage with others socially. They may assist staff with daily responsibilities, such as escorting residents to programs and appointments, helping with mail, providing tours, etc., or they may provide an enhanced level of care and service, such as talking with residents who may not receive many visitors or providing respite for families of hospice patients.

"I would encourage new residents who are looking to feel more fulfilled to volunteer," Bob said. "That's what it does for us. As you get older, it's important to stay active."

"Since our retirement, we didn't want to sit around and not do anything," Linda said. "The gift shop is my niche. It's a great place to be social. People sometimes come in not to buy anything, but just to be around others. It fulfills a need."

"Considering more than 600 volunteers help out, I don't think Masonic Village could survive without them," Bob said. "They do a little bit of everything. And we could always use more."

Bob, a member of Treichler Lodge No. 682, Elizabethtown, inherited his heart for helping from his father, a 33° Mason, and his mother, a member of the Order of the Eastern Star and other Masonic organizations. Perhaps the biggest reward of volunteering for the Schods is seeing that their propensity for serving their community has been embraced by Bob's children and grandchildren, who are active volunteers with local fire companies.

"There are so many reasons why volunteering is good for yourself and society," Bob said.

Stuffed with Generosity

A Quinceañera is the Hispanic tradition of celebrating a girl's 15th birthday. One of the customs of a Quinceañera ceremony is to pass along a doll to a younger female family member as a "coming of age."

When it came time for Arabella Albino, who volunteers at Masonic Village at Elizabethtown, to plan her Quinceañera, she wanted to make it special, but not just for herself.

"I wanted to share my birthday gifts with the residents because I didn't need more stuff, and I didn't want to just make my birthday all about me," she said. "I wanted to share things that I like with them so they could be as happy as I was when I would play with dolls and stuffed animals."

During her Quinceañera celebration, Arabella requested her guests bring dolls and stuffed animals, which she personally presented to residents on March 28.

"When I handed out the stuffed animals and baby dolls, it made my heart swell with joy because when they received them, their faces were priceless," Arabella said. "The staff told me about a resident who is almost never happy. When I handed her the doll, she was overjoyed. It broke my heart because I never thought that it would make such a huge impact on someone. I'm glad I got the chance to share my gifts with them, and I hope that they enjoy them for many years to come."

"Many of our ladies and gentlemen miss being a parent and find great comfort in holding a doll, or they may have had to leave a pet behind," Jan Hendershot, social worker, said. "How beautiful that Arabella thought of someone else who may have a need to be 'blessed.'"

Arabella has been volunteering with Masonic Village since she was 13. She helps with Music Therapy programs, in the therapy pool and visiting with residents. She formed a close relationship with one resident in particular, who she helped learn how to use his iPad and social media. He passed away, and Arabella will miss seeing him this summer when she returns as a volunteer.

"I wanted to volunteer at Masonic Village because I realized that I love helping others," she said. "One of the things I enjoy most is getting to hear stories from different residents and getting to talk one-on-one with them. I learn so much about them this way."

Her volunteer experiences are also inspiring her future. She is considering becoming a CNA after high school and would like to work at Masonic Village. Arabella's mother, Linda, works at Masonic Village as a commercial insurance coordinator. When her daughter shared her birthday wish, Linda was humbled by her kindness and compassion for others.

"For her to use her Quinceañera as a way to bless the folks at Masonic Village spoke volumes to me about her values and the Godly young woman she has become," Linda said. "Her daddy and I were very proud of her for this act of love and generosity."

An Enriching Gift

At age 17, Daniel Rutkowski's life took a different turn; one that shaped his future career, as well as his beliefs and perspective on the world.

Dan enrolled in the Thomas Ranken Patton Masonic School for Boys, located across Bainbridge Road from Masonic Village at Elizabethtown (then Masonic Homes). Patton School offered two tracks for students: a vocational track, which included electronics, machine shop and carpentry, and an academic track. After a short period studying carpentry, Dan knew academics was the right path for him. The school set him up for success and also provided him with lifelong memories and friends.

One of his favorite experiences was a trip the entire school took to the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C. The day ended with dinner and a dance cruise on the Potomac River. He is still in contact with his roommate, and they reminisce about their adventures.

"I really did make an about face in the direction I was going while at Patton," he said.

After graduating, Dan attended Kutztown University (then known as Kutztown State College), where he graduated with honors. Right out of college, he worked for Traveler's Insurance as an underwriter. He currently works at Penske Truck Leasing in the risk management department.

Through Patton and his participation in DeMolay, Dan met a lot of men who belonged to the Masonic fraternity, and he later joined Reading Lodge No. 549, where he served as Worshipful Master in 2015.

"I am very appreciative of the charity I received when I was a youth," Dan said. "I must say the benefit of going to Patton wasn't just education. It was really receiving the Masonic charity. It has made me a more generous person throughout my life.

"A key to making your way in the world is, when you have the ability to bless someone else, you need to do it."

Dan is doing just that by blessing the residents of Masonic Villages through his financial support. During his frequent return visits to Masonic Village at Elizabethtown, he reflects on how much the campus has changed, but also what remains the same: its Mission of Love.

"I love the place," he said. "I plan to retire there. When you're there, apart from the beauty, it's satisfying to talk with residents. Talking with them, you realize that's one of the benefits we as Masons provide: a wonderful place to enjoy in their twilight years. It's second to none.

"Like a lot of folks, I've done much planning to make my life comfortable. I choose to give to Masonic Villages. I think there will always be people who have less than what they might wish to have. It really boils down to this: we don't give to things and organizations. We give to people. I'm giving to people who are and will be served by Masonic Villages. I know the people served will be enriched, and those are the people I want to give to."

A gift through your Will can be structured in a variety of ways. You can choose to leave one or more of the Masonic Charities a specific dollar amount, a percentage of your estate or the remainder of your estate after you have provided for family and friends. Masonic Children's Home Makeover

You can help!

The Masonic Children's Home will soon undergo a facelift that will unveil a kid-centric décor to maximize the space within each home and provide more private, as well as shared, spaces for the kids to ... well, be kids.

The five cottages will undergo their first renovations since the program was moved into its current hilltop location in 1994.

Staff and children provided input into the redesign, which must meet regulations set by the Department of Public Welfare. Each of the children will soon have his or her own bedroom, and the shared spaces within each cottage will be more open and modern, with windows that allow them to appreciate the beautiful view of the campus. The cottages' interiors will be bright and clean looking with vibrant pops of color. While ensuring durability in function, the décor will present a welcoming, fun atmosphere, featuring homework zones with reading/study nooks that are comfortable, versatile and creative.

The resource center garage will be converted into a new multi-purpose room which the kids and staff are excited to use for meetings, dinners, movies and other group activities.

This summer, the Balliet and Umbaugh cottages for girls, the administration office and the resource/study center will be completed. The outdoor façades will be updated this fall, and next summer, the Longdon, Dougherty and Weller cottages for boys will be finished.

The following wish list is comprised of the furniture, appliances and new fixtures needed to furnish the cottages. Support has already been provided for the Umbaugh and Longdon cottages.

Please note that if funds donated for any one item listed are over-subscribed, the funds will be used for additional wish list items or needs in the same service area.
